

Julien Creuzet

b. 1986, Le Blanc Mesnil, France
lives and works in Montreuil

French-born artist Julien Creuzet intertwines practices as a visual artist and poet through amalgams of sculpture, film, installation, and textual intervention. Describing Martinique, where the artist spent formative childhood years, as “the heart of my imagination,” Creuzet often addresses diasporic cultural experiences and post-colonial exchanges. Drawing from influences such as the poetic and philosophical reflections of Aimé Césaire and Édouard Glissant, Creuzet’s intellectual engagement with origins and alterity bridges celebratory, emancipatory, and critical expressions at the intersection of Caribbean history and European modernity.

Julien Creuzet (b. 1986 in Le Blanc-Mesnil, France) lives and works in Montreuil.

Creuzet represented France at the 60th Venice Biennale (2024). French Pavilion, Venice

Attila cataract your source at the feet of the green peaks will end up in the great sea blue abyss where we drowned in the tidal tears of the moon

Julien Creuzet transforms the French Pavilion and invites visitors into a space irrigated with fluids in which a radical and collective imaginary opens up, populated with divine presences, and connected to Venice by its water. Attila cataract your source at the feet of the green peaks will end up in the great sea blue abyss where we drowned in the tidal tears of the moon promises an immersive and multi-sensory experience, a plunge into Julien Creuzet's forms, materials, and themes.

The title of each of Julien Creuzet's works and exhibitions consists of poetry. This mode of address, a long way from the norms of museum design, press releases, and cartels, is one that the artist has cultivated since his beginnings. Once again, it conveys an invitation to intense experience and to interpretative freedom and diversity. In this poem, with its places, colors, movements, sounds, rhythms, textures, luminosities, obscurities, landscapes, mythologies, disasters and emotions.

"What I want to offer visitors to this pavilion is a complex and sensory zone of confluence, a deeply lived experience. For me, this is what space is about. It is a crossway, a place where anything may be encountered, above all oneself."
– Julien Creuzet

The artist's sonic and chromatic grammar resonates in an immersive and dense pavilion, where visitors will experience an environment consisting of more than 80 sculptures of six different types; 6 new video creations; 7 sequences for musical work and one olfactory dimension.

A large-scale abstract sculpture is positioned on both sides of the frame. It consists of numerous thin, translucent threads in shades of blue, green, pink, and purple, which are intricately woven together to form organic, flowing forms. Some areas are more densely packed with fibers, while others have larger, more prominent, bulbous shapes. The overall effect is one of a complex, living, and dynamic structure.
